The Business Law program provides students with the professional and interdisciplinary qualification for responsible legal work in large and medium-sized companies as well as in associations and organizations. The course promotes the early recognition and prevention of harmful legal consequences and thus, in particular, preventive and results-oriented legal advice. By studying modules on European and international law, especially during an optional semester abroad, as well as a possible internship semester abroad, the degree program also prepares students for a professional career at companies and organizations with international presence.

You will benefit from a combination of content from law and economics:

Learn methods and ways of thinking of both disciplines - law and economics.

Acquire competent interdisciplinary communication skills to discuss successfully with both the manager and the lawyer.

Select from individual options in versatile areas of specialization, such as "sustainability, energy and environmental law" and "law, compliance, digitalization".

In-house knowledge contributes to finding individual solutions, especially in contract, labor, commercial and corporate law.
